I'm in love with this game!

At it's core it's a simple jump and run game, but in VR. There is also a little bit of strategy game play involved since you can add blocks to the level before you run them.

The movement system in the game is very solid. It's easy to move around, grab on to things, climb, jump etc. all these actions are spot on. In other games it's sometimes hard to grab onto things while in motion and here you jump from one swining ball to another with no problem. Also: no motion sickness!

The music (although a bit repetitive after a long play session) is amazing and get's you really pumped up and get's you moving.

At first i thought that 13 levels was not enough but i was wrong. The levels are very challenging and you'll have to try several times to master them. But i never felt like giving up. There are no checkpoints along the way in the levels but this adds the fun and the challenge. I think you'll have to put several hours into this game untill you complete it. And if you do..there is still replay value: Try alternative paths and try to beat your record.

One thing i would like to see: Leaderboards with times where you could see what your friends time was on a certain level.

This game is worth every cent you pay and if you're not sure if you like it, there is even a demo on steam to try it before you make your decision.. If you have Oculus Rift don't even buy this game... When you start level 1 you see a bunch of "how to" things with only Vive controllers visible and nothing to tell you what to do. Oculus support is clearly not even in this game. I couldn't even figure out how to start the actual game.
